

Homesteader Museum Volunteer Application

The Homesteader Museum of Park County is a public, non-profit museum that preserves and interprets the history of The Shoshone Irrigation Project with special emphasis on the period since the first division opened in 1906 until the fourth division closed in 1950. The museum collects books, documents, artifacts, oral histories and other cultural objects, preserving them and interpreting them for the public in permanent displays, temporary exhibits, educational programs, public events and publications.
